MONDAYS

Celebrating the “Gold Jackets” in our lives!

As you receive this edition of Mondays with Mike, the Pro Football Hall of Fame will be lining up for the kickoff to this year’s Enshrinement Celebration. It is such an exciting time for the Hall, the NFL, and the City of Canton! So, how can we use this energy and channel it into our families, worksites, locker rooms, and board rooms?

Let’s start with the Mission of the Hall of Fame:

- > Honor the Greatest of the Game
- > Preserve its History
- > Promote its Values
- > Celebrate Excellence Together

What if we took each action of the Hall’s Mission and connected it to our life’s journey. It could look like this:

> Honor the Greatest of the Game. Let’s be sure to put a “gold jacket” on those in our lives who are living and serving life in a hall-of-fame manner. Call them out for their great love, service, and contributions. Let them know that they are among the greatest in life’s journey.

> Preserve its History. Use our best role models as examples for those that we interact with. Share the stories of how these key individuals shaped our lives and why those interactions are historically important to us.

> Promote its Values. What are our family, job, team, and board guiding principles? Do we take time to share them by citing examples of how those have helped the greater good of each group and why those are differentiators in life’s interactions.

> Celebrate Excellence Together. Football is a team game. Life is a team game. Let’s seize every moment that we can to celebrate the best behaviors that have created excellence and commit to those behaviors in all that we do.

Let’s put a “Gold Jacket” on our life’s journey and on those who are traveling with us by committing to the mission of living a Hall of Fame life.

Enjoy the week!
